AMUSEMENTS.

"Love and Law."

"Love and Law."

The Milton Nobles Company closed last evening with a new play entitled Love and Law, a sketch of which was given yesterday morning. It is pleasing and in some respects above the ordinary, but on the whole does not compare favorably with Nobles' other productions. There is in it a little more of the blood and thunder and a good deal of the genuine good humor with which they are brimming over. The company left after the performance for Clarksville.

The Madison Square Company open with Esmeralda at Leubrie's to-night. The St. Louis Republican says: An Emeraldo season opened at Pope's last evening, and season opened at Pope's last evening, and a very good audience was there to see. Of the cast were: Ben Maginley as "Farmer Rogers," Kate Denin Wilson as "Mrs. Rogers," Annie Russell as "Esmeralda," Joseph Wheelock as "Dave Hardy," Mrs. Charles Walcott as "Estabrook," G. W. Presbrey as "Jack Desmond," Kathleen Denin as "Kate," Harry Clifton as the "Mar-quis," and Geo. Drew as "Harry Talbott," A novelty in change of scene is worthy of

A novelty in change of scene is worthy of mention. The first act scene is a cabi interior, bare walls and scant furniture

The second act is a Parisian studio full cornaments and bric-a-brac, and stylishly furnished and carpeted. The change is made in astonishingly quick time—the curtain being down scarcely half a minute, between the acts. It is very neatly done and excites curiosity. All the effects of the Madison Square Theater double stage are produced, and how, is a scenic puzzle
